History of the South Ward Neighborhood Elm Street Project

History: Pennsylvania's Elm Street Program assists municipalities in rejuvenating residential and mixed-use areas adjacent to their central business district. Pennsylvania based its Elm Street Program on its successful Main Street Program, which targets downtown commercial districts. Central commercial areas and the neighborhoods that surround them are linked. Vibrant neighborhoods provide customers and a labor pool for downtown businesses. In turn, a healthy downtown improves the quality of life in nearby neighborhoods. The idea behind the Elm Street Program is that communities should plan the future of these two types of areas together, instead of treating them like separate entities.

The area under study in this plan is the South Ward

Five Elements of Elm Street

4. Neighbors and Economy
5. Sustainable Organization

Neighborhood, which lies adjacent to the Borough's West Broad Street and South Center Street Business District. This area is defined on the east by the border of Rt. 309 (Center Street), on the west by the Borough of Tamaqua boundary, on the north by West Broad Street (Route 209), and on the south by the properties bordering Orwigsburg Street. The exact boundaries can be seen on the project map.

The Elm Street Program also provides three types of state grants to municipalities, which are planning grants to prepare five-year revitalization strategies, operational grants for hiring a professional Elm Street Manager to oversee implementation of the five-year strategy, and reinvestment grants to fund physical improvements recommended in the five-year strategy. The Borough received a planning grant to prepare an Elm Street Neighborhood Plan and has hired Ogden Consulting, LLC and Daniel Schroeder Historical Restoration and Design Consultant as the planning consultant for this project.

Elm Street Goals

Within this neighborhood, the goals of the Elm Street Program are:

- To improve physical appearances by enhancing exterior building conditions and the local streetscape;
- To connect with revitalization activities happening in nearby commercial areas;

- To create and sustain neighborhood organizations that will help prevent decline; and
- To devise a vision for neighborhood revitalization and a comprehensive strategy to carry out that vision.

Development of the Plan

In order to develop as successful of a project as possible, the Borough, South Ward Neighborhood Committee and the consultants held a series of public meetings to solicit public input into the plan development process. A housing inventory was completed; existing programs, systems, resources and current municipal codes were reviewed. Volunteers developed a photographic inventory of their likes and dislikes.

Through this process, the neighborhood assets and challenges were identified. These have been translated into goals, objectives and specific tasks consistent with the five elements of the Elm Street Plan: Clean, Safe & Green; Design; Image & Identity; Neighbors and Economy; and Sustainable Organization.
